The world around you flickers unexpectedly, reality twisting and turning as colors of pastel pinks and blues begin to swirl in the air. One moment, you are simply minding your own business, perhaps lost in a mundane thought; the next, you find yourself standing in an ethereal city framed by clouds, radiant light spilling all around like the sound of laughter from distant angels.

You blink, confusion knitting your brows together. "What is happening?" you ask, but your voice seems to echo with an intriguing melody, a charming note that feels foreign yeta comforting lullaby coaxing you closer to a different self. The vibrant city glows with animating life, as seraphim and cherubs glide gracefully through the skies, laughter chiming as they flit about in their celestial playground. You watch, entranced and slightly bewildered.

As the tickling sensation floods your limbs, you catch a glimpse of your reflection in a glimmering pool. Your skin is transforming before your eyes, shifting to a shade of purest white, while red circles bloom on your cheeks like bright blossoms against a canvas of light. "WhatWelcome to Heaven!a seraphim, with six dazzling wings unfurled and shimmering in the light. they urge, their tone encouraging, almost euphoric.

In awe, you watch as your body grows unnaturally slender For too long youHaha! I always wanted to look like that!a curious delight coursing through you as you watch your fingers shrink, only four remaining like those of the heavenly beings surrounding you.

Your clothes morph next in an instant, enveloping your form in a flowing white robe that's exquisite; it hugs your now-diminished frame perfectly, light blue rims glinting with splendor and the edges golden like the sunrise. The final flourish is a halo, glowing brilliantly above your head, a vivid symbol of your newfound identity.

says the seraphim as if reading your mind.

Suddenly, your height begins to regress almost whimsically. Glancing down, you see yourself shrinking to a perfect size, your wings unfurling elegantly behind yous life in Heaven, of endless joy, celestial games, and light.

As the final vestiges of your human self flutter away like autumn leaves caught in the wind, a blissful wave of peace cascades over you. You embrace this new reality wholeheartedly, you Welcome, Seraph!Now you shall guide the way for others, just as we do!a seraphim, embracing your lifelong destiny, your laughter harmonizing with the ethereal choir of pure joy surrounding you.

And indeed, thateternally blessed and incandescently alive.

All thoughts of what could have been fade away into the light, leaving you with nothing but the knowledge of your angelic name, joy in your heart, and a dawn of endless days ahead.